vaudeville attraction for the first half of this week is another Keith act called The Earl and the Girls, a rolcalled The Earl and the Girls, a rol-licking musical comedy with 10 people in the cast. Elight of the company are pretty girls and two funny comedians. Many good singing numbers and dances are introduced in the show, and the several changes of costume are a pleasing feature. Everything done is up to date the comedy is clean and pleasing feature. Everything done is up to date, the comedy is clean and wholesome and the songs are catchy. This company carries all the scenery used in the act and electrical effects. The feature picture to be shown here today and tomorrow is called A Man and His Mate, a four-part Mutual master film, telling how a young college athlete of high ideals and good birth acquires the morphine habit and later, a social outcast and physical wreck, finds his way into the western wilds. Here, after many stirring adventures, he is mistaken for a horse thief and is about to be hung by an man—all in the rugged open country pf rench land and foothills. Henry Woodruff of "Brown of Harvard" fame plays the part of the unfortuate hero Gladys Brockwell makes an appealing heroine and a strong supporting company rounds out this splendid film. The Mutual War Weekly and a funny Keystone comedy with Mabel Normand and Fatty completes the programme, Matinee daily at 2.30; all seats 10c, children 6c. Evening at 7 and 8.45; 10c, 15c and 20c. with reference to the blockade under-taken by the Germans, the first serious blockade ever attempted against the United Kingdom," begins a bulletin just issued by the National Geographic Society, which sketches a few of the difficulties in the way of maintaining an effective blockade of the many-harbored, sea-encircled nation. The bulletin continues:

bulletin continues:

"Great Britain is a land of harbors and highly developed ports. Its foreign commerce clears from more than 120 seaports, that are situated upon every sea washing the islands. To shut off English commerce with other lands would require an almost impossible sea-strength. Moreover, besides its wealth of widely scattered harbors, the United Kingdom has a particularly irregular coastline, which would serve to greatly multiply the labors of a blockader.

"Broken by rocky headlands, bays,"

"Broken by rocky headlands, bays, and deeply penetrating inlets of the sea, the English coastline alone stretches for a distance of 2,350 miles. stretches for a distance of 2,350 miles. To the south, upon the English Channel, lie the great seaports of Plymouth, Southampton, Portsmouth, Brighton and Dover; to the east, toward the North Sea, are the ports of London, Harwich, Great Yarmouth, Hull and Newcastle, and to the west, toward the Atlantic and the Irish Sea, are Bristol, Cardiff, Swansea, and Liverpool. Hundreds of smaller ports are sprinkled in between these great harbors of world-fame.

"Of these English ports, Liverpool

"Treiand's greatest ports, Belfast and Dublin, are situated upon her east coast on the Irish Sea. The restless breaking of a rough Atlantic over the rocky needles of her western coast has retarded the development of commercial harbors there. Limerick, upon the River Shannon, gives Ireland an important Atlantic harbor, while Queenstown is an outlet in the south and Londonderry in the north.

"With its more than 6,500 miles of coastline, and its well-developed harbors all along the way, the United Kingdom presents a problem of extreme difficulty to any power intending to maintain blockade against it."

Michelin prices have just been reduced 10 per cent, yet no change has been made in the quality of these well known tires. This good news is sure to interest all motorists, especially as Michelin tires have been selling for some time at prices a little too high for some purses. The manufacturers state that they have been unable, heretofore, to reduce selling prices without sacrificing the recognized high standard of quality of Michelin tires.

The present substantial reduction, while in a measure due to the surprisingly increased demand in this country for quality tires, is more particularly due to the greatly augmented output New-mown hay, however, is not althief and is about to be hung by an energed mob of cowboys when a woman's patience and skill cures him of his relentless appetite.
